Richard Short was sworn in his own defense, and related the same story as told by the other witnesses on the same side. He was shocked at the suggestion that he could carry a dagger.

The clerks of the Continental hotel, Dr. Kirby, of Chambers street hospital, and Policeman Levy, were called in rebuttal to show that Phelan's condition was not that of a man who had been drinking heavily. Then counsel summed up. Lawyer Brooke argued that Short acted only in self-defense. He attached sergeant to summon tales of four hundred for to morrow morning at 11 o'clock, to which hour the court adjourned. The contracted court room was crowded to the utmost capac-

A Rough Character Established for Phelan THE OLD VETERANS MINGLE IN BALTIMORE

THE BLUE AND GRAY.

A Rough Character Established for Phelan
--Attempted Assassination.

New York, May 6.—The trial of Richard Short for the attempted assassination of Captain Thomas Phelan, in O'Donovan Rossa's office, was continued to-day. Phelan was recalled and asked some unimportant questions, and the prosecution rested.

The defense then opened with an address by their counsel, Charles W. Brooke. The latter maintained that Phelan came to this city to wreak his vengeance on Rossa, because Rossa had published something in the United Irish man concerning Phelan. Counsel saidt that The Army of the Potomac welcomes the Lee Confederates of Richmond-The Ass's Bray Reard in the General Rejoicing-The Rebal Yell-Notes of the Event.

BALTIMORE, May 6 .- Baltimore to day presented more activity than for some time past. There is a great deal more decoration than had published something in the United Irishman concerning Phelan. Counsel saidt that Phelan went to Rossa's office to attack him, and while there acted boisterously and threatened Rossa. Short spoke to Phelan, but the latter attacked him, and Short stabbed with a dagger in protecting himself. The dagger, counsel maintained, was one of the ornaments of Rossa's office. Counsel would show that Phelan was not a reliable witness, that he had perjured himself in a conspiracy against was expected, and the streets are filled with people drawn here by the meeting of the society of the army of the Potomac. Uniformed men are plenty and everywhere they are greeted with a cordial welcome. Robert E. Lee camp of confederate volunteers arrived in the city at 1:40 p. m. and received quite an ovation. The business meeting of the eleven army corps was held in his superior officer while captain of the capi-tol police at Washington.

Walker J. Elliott testified to hearing Phelan the forencon, and that of the society was held at Ford's opera house at two o'clock. General hreaten to lay out Rossa, and Prof. Mezzeroff, Grant was re-elected commander by acclamathreaten to lay out Kossa, and Prof. Mezzeron, the dynamiter.

John F. Kearney, liquor storekeeper, denied that he had written to Phelan to come to this city. Witness described Phelan's boisterous conduct in Rossa's office, and his quarrel with Short. When the fight began Kearney said tion, amid a storm of enthusiasm, which lasted several minutes. All of the old officers were then re elected in a similar manner.

THE ASS'S BRAY.

At this point General W. H. Brown, of Washington, took the floor, and suggested that as the R. E. Lee camp, of Richmond, Va., were in the immediate neighborhood, it would be in the immediate neighborhood, it would be both generous and graceful to invite them to occupy seets on the floor of the house, and make their acqdaintance. A motion to that effect was made and seconded. Opposition was immediately raised by several, one of them saying that a rebel had no interest in the business of the union soldiers, and that their presence was an insult, which he could not endure. Nearly every man in the house was instantly on his feet, trying to make himself heard, and for a while there was a reene of wild confusion, which threatened to a reene of wild confusion, which threatened to terminate in a personal encounter. The char-man vainly endeavored to secure order, and threatened to invoke the aid of the police. Quiet was finally restored, and the committee was appointed to invite the ex-confederates to meet their old opponents after business of meeting was disposed of.

MANLINESS TRIUMPHS.

After the adjournment, the committee appointed to invite the R. E. Lee camp to seats on the floor, came in, bringing with them a long line of men in gray suits. They were greeted with great applause, and in return filled the house with the genume "rebel yell" that threatened to pull down the ceiling. The ex-confederates were scattered among the blue coats, and their officers invited to occur years on the were scattered among the blue coats, and their officers invited to occupy seats on the stage. General King, secretary of the society, read the following telegram from General Grant:

Please thank the members of the society of the Army of the Potomac for their partiality in electing me for the second time their president. I wish my health promised a probability of my being at the next meeting. I would regard it as providential should I be able to attend, but I accept the konor, though without the hope of performing the duties of the office. Wishing all the members many happy reunions, I remain, Judge Vanbrunt made a brief and impartial charge, bearing principally on the points of self defense, and at 7:30 the jury retired.

A VERDICE OF ACQUITTAL.

The lobbies of the courthouse remained thronged with people. At 9:30 the jury made known that an agreement had been reached. They were brought into court and asked what their verdict was. Mayor Latrobe welcomed the veterans on behalf of the city. He said:

If there is any regret at this meeting, it is due to the absence of your old commander, who we hope will be restored to health from the ravages of disease. While many of Maryland's sons knew the soldiers of the army of the Potomac as friends, there were also many who wore the gray and learned to respect their foes. A new generation has arisen, many of those who led the gallant charges have crossed over the river and joined the illustrious soldiers among the shadowy hosts, while above us waves the flag of a united, happy and prosperous country. London, May 6 .- The St. Petersburg newspapers are annoyed at Russia's accepting arbitration to settle the difficulty between Russia and England, and consider it a concession to M. DeGier's pacific policy.

The Vienna Neu Freie Presse considers that arbitration between England and Russia will form a valuable precedent for the settlement of national disputes.

The Standard says: "We must count it a piece of good luck if the whole commission is not recalled."

No news is obtainable of the appointment of an arbitrator. The king of the Belgians is spoken of in Berlin as the potentate most likely to be chosen. The change of purpose made by Abdurrahman, smeer of Afghanistan, has placed England, the Times thinks, in a difficult position. It is time to make him understand, continues the Times, that he must strongly garrison Herat and allow at least the presence there of English officers to fortify the place. If peace has been but temporarily secured, the Times concludes, it will be madness to waste time thus gained, which, at best, can be but short. The czar has issued a decree creating two trans-Caspien reserve battalions. The Journal De St. Petersburg says it is pleased to see that the debates in the British parliament on the Afghan question have avoided the military question involved. It declares that the resumed communications between England and sumed communications between England and Russia have replaced the discussion on the basis of the real interests of Russia and England in central Asia, and expresses the hope that Gladstone will succeed in appeasing the present English agitation, "which has no reasonable cause."

complained that the shelving of the Komarofi incident was effected under the ridiculous pretence of arbitration. He protested against the removal of the commission on frontier delimitation to London, to be dealt with by the imbeciles in the foreign office. Russia, he said, always objected to the presence of Sir Peter Lumsden, and deliberately insulted him in the face of all Asia by not sending General Desinav. den, and denoerately insulted him in the lace of all Asia by not sending General Deelnay, the Russian Afghan commissioner, to meet him. Now the government had gratified Russia by recalling Lumsden. The English people were being humbugged into national and imperial ruin. The vote of credit, like the resolution to smash the mahdi, and Mr. Gladstone's great speech; is all sham. The ministrance of the state o stone's great speech, is all sham. The ministers, he said, were not thinking of the country's interest, but of the general election. They were election sgents, not statesmen. It was time for the tories to endeavor to bring about a change in the advisers of the crown by refusing the supples.

THE INDIAN BATTLE. Full Details of the Running Fight in

OTTAWA, Ont., May 6 .- In the house of commons this evening Sir John MacDonald

Said:

I have just received a telegram from Colonel Herchmer, of the mounted police, which deals more particularly with his own corps. The telegram is dated the third instant, and comes from Battlefod. The column fought Poundmaker for seven hours and demolished his camp. The police behaved beyond praise, receiving the first fire and holding an advanced position, while the column formed for attack and remaining there throughout the engagement. The total brigade loss is eight killed and fifteen wounded. We moved eighty miles in thirty hours, seven hours of which we were fighting. The enemy's loss is fully 160.

of which we were fighting. The enemy's loss is fully 160.

THE STORY OF THE BATTLE.

BATTLEFORD, N. W. T., May 6.—Further details of the battle between Otter's force and Poundmaker's Indians, show favorably for Otter. After a forced march of thirty miles his force reached the reserve and offered battle to the Indians, who readily responded. The fight lasted seven hours. The Indians used muskets, war clubs, spears, bows and arrows, and weapons of every conceivable kind. Otter's force kept still under cover of the bush, and from an intrenched position poured deadly volleys of bullets into the redskins, who fell in scores all around. Fully 100 are known to have been killed, and it is thought twice as many are wounded. Otter's loss is seven killed and eighteen wounded. No mention is made in the dispatches of the killed and wounded being brought back, and it is judged from the hasty march back that they were left behind. Nothing but the last extremity would induce Otter to leave them. The troops burned the buildings on the reserve extremity would induce Otter to leave them. The troops burned the buildings on the reserve before leaving. No one has any doubt that a bloody Indian war will follow. The Qu'Appelle Indians, who yesterday raided and sacked a number of settlers' houses, are today reported to have risen and left the reserve. Crowfoot, chief of the Blackfeet, is related to Poundmaker, and will, it is said, join him in battle against the whites. The dominion government and General Otter are blamed tor not securing the ransom of Factor McLean and other white captives of the Indians before precipitating matters. They will probably all precipitating matters. They will probably all be murdered if they have not already been. Great alarm is felt here in consequence. THE WEST END AND ATLANTA

A Street Bailroad Sold at Sheriff's Sale - A Mortgage Foreclosed. The West End and Atlanta Street railroad

The West End and Atlanta Street radroad was sold by the sheriff yesterday morning. The railroad begins on Broad street at Marietts, and passing along Broad goes out Mitchell, then out Thompson to Nelson, to Walker, to Peters, to Leonard and through the barracks to Mr. J. H. Broomhead's residence. The read is about two miles long and is thorough the conjunct. The care are all pay and oughly equipped. The cars are all new and the live stock is in good order. The road cost over $30,000 and is now on a paying basis.

The road was built by subscription and the

The road was built by subscription and the amount necessary to construct was subscribed by persons residing along the route. The management, however, did not collect these subscriptions as the building progressed, and when the road was finished a large number of the subscribers reniged. This caused a mortgage det of about $20,000. Mr. L. J. Hill held the mortgage, and being unable to secure his money caused a foreclosure. The sale was not largely attended, as it is not everybody who wants a street railroad. The road fully equipped brought $17,000, and was purchased by T. L. Langston, J. M. Stephens, and Hightower & Hallman. These gentlemen now own the road and will see that it is successfully operated. They will meet this week cessfully operated. They will meet this week and effect an organization. The gentlemen who purchased the road decline to reveal their intentions, but it is intimated by friends of the purchasers that the road will be extended to West view cemetery this summer.

THE NEW ROAD,

Covington Still in the Dark, But Has Assur-ances that the Road Will Be Built.

There is very little light, so far, thrown on the proposed Macon and Covington railroad. The Covington Star publishes the application for charter, but does not seem to know who the capitalists are that propose to build the road. The incorporators are Messrs. B. W. Frobel, of Atlanta; J. A. Ansley, of Decatur, and L. F. Livingston, of Covington. The Star whether the ayudicate of capitalists, that are Whether the ayndicate of capitalists, that are backing the gentlemen who are applying for the charter, mean to build the road and put it into operation or not, is a question the Star is unprepared to answer, further than the positive assurance of Mr. Livingston that the company is composed of gentlemen of wealth and business integrity, and that they are in real earnest about building the road. Mr. Livingston turther informs us that they expect to have the road graded from Covington to Macon by the first of September, and that they have the rails already purchased for this link of the road, with construction trains and such other machinery as is necessary for pushing the work with all possible speed to completion. There will be no trouble, we presume, in procuring the charter, which will probably be granted in thirty days, when the company propose to begin work at once. It is said the road is to be built by a new and wealthy company, and that it is to be operated independently of all existing lines of railway in the state. If this be true, it is the very thing covington wants, as it will give us competition in freights and passenger fares. But if it is to be operated as a part of the Central and Louisville and Nashville'systems, of course we had rather not have it built, as it would not be a competing line. Covington wants a competing line, and not a monopoly. We want another road, because we want through rates for freight and passenger fares.

Debaiing the Right of Women to Sit in Council as Delegates-Succk Holders' Meeting in Augusta -Sufcide in Oglethorps-Disappearance From Athens-Other State Dots.

AUGUSTA, Gs., May 6 .- [Special]-Promptly at called to order by Moderator P. H. Mell, and the convention and audience sang "Rock of Ages. All the other dele gates arrive to-night and to-morrow.

TROUBLE OVER SEX,

The first discussion and breeze in the convention was a wordy war over the women. When Arkansas was reached in the roll call two ladies' names appeared among the dele-gates. Their admission was referred to a committee consisting of J. W. Jones, of Virginia; J. H. Kilpatrick, of Georgia; Basil Manly, of Kentucky; J. L. Carroll, of North Carolina, and M. B. The first two presented a minority report against and the three last named a majority report favoring the admission of the ladies.

Dr. Manley, in behalf of the majority of the committee, to which the question was referred, favored the strict construction of the organic law and the admission of lady delegates. He said it he had been in Arkansas he would have objected to the selection of the lady delegates, but he thought the convention had no right to object to their admission

Dr. Jones, of Virginia, in support of the minority report, opposed the admission of the ladies. He said: 'If the convention favors the admission of women, we will be flooded with them next "He favored standing by the custom their fathers and the word of eir fathers and the word of He hoped the lady delegates would be rejected.

A New Jail for Oglethorpe.

LEXIMOTON, Ga., May 6 .- [Special]-The county commissioners held their monthly meeting to-day and after discussing and passing on the usual routine of business, passed on to the new. The last grand jury recommended the building of a new courthouse. This was taken up, and, after some discussion as to repairing the old or building a new, it was decided to build a new one, not to exceed in cost $20,000. The commissioners appointed as a building committee five of our most promiment and capable men for the enterprise, as follows: Charles M. Witcher, Hamilton McWhorter, T. P. Callaway, Samuel Bailey and J. J. C McMa-han. The above gentlemen represent the different parts of the county, and will begin at once to draw up a plan, etc., on the old site. The courthouse should never be moved from this place and never will be, it being the trading centre of the county. Our commissioners have acted wisely, and will receive the approval of the entire county.

S. B. Harris Mysteriously Disappears From Athens.

Athers, Ga., May 6.—[Special.]—About two weeks so there registered at the boardinghouse of Mrs. G. C. Arnold a book agent named S. B. Harris, of Minneapolis, Minn. He seemed in a melancholy state of mind and avoided conversation, except when the subject of religion was broached, when he would grow eloquent in its discussion. He remarked to his landlady that earth had no charms for him, and spoke of people seeking relief in death. On Sunday night he paced the piazza restlessly and then retired to his com. The next morning when called for breakfast the room was found vacant and nothing since has been heard or seen of him. He left his clothing, trunk and all other property. In one pocket was found a business letter writen by John C. Owen, 33 North Forsyth street, Atlanta, and Chief Oliver telegraphed to that gentleman if he knew of Harris's whereabouts. He was answered no. His trunk was then opened, and under the clothing a number of private let-ters and communications written for papers and for THE CONSTITUTION were found. The articles were on the electro-magnetic apparatus, for mind reading, and he argued that the suicide of Berrien Brooks, of Atlanta, was caused by his mind being affected by the electro apparatus. There is a love letter from Henrictta Owens, of Minnesota, and mother from a lady friend, stating that Miss O wens had died of heart disease. Harris is a Spiritualist. It is the confident opinion that he has ommitted suicide from despondency, and the river is watched for his body.

Spielde of a Colored Man. ATEENS, Ga., May 6 - [Special.] - Tuesday last am Thomas, colored, suicided by hanging near his home in upper Oglethorpe county. For about two weeks past Sam had been under treatment of Dr. Dowdy for gravel, and had nearly recovered, but not sufficiently to attend to business. On Tuesday morning he told his family that he would go to see the doctor in person, and they thought he had gone on this mission, and he was not missed until the dinner hour, Search was then instigated, and at 3 o'clock he was found hanging to an oak tree in a piece of wood about 400 yards from his house. His children say that he went to his buggy house about 11 o'clock, took the lines and ran towards the woods. It is the opinion of every one that he was in a fit of mental aberration. His family say that he remarked a ew days ago, that before he would have another attack of his disease that he would kill himself.

Building in Albany.

About the only improvements, in the building ine, if they can be called such, that have taken place in Albany for a year past, is the erection by small capitalists of a large number of small wooden one and two room houses, built mainly for colored tenants. This has had the very natural effect of drawing into the city from the country a number of negroes to be added to the already overcrowded colored population of Albany. How they all manage to rive, and even to thrive here, as some of them apparently do, is one of the standing mysteries, particularly when it is onsidered that with the occasional aid of the country darkies they support some twelve or fourteen exclusively negro bar-rooms.

The Lima Bean From the Quitman, Ga., Free Press.

It is an evidence of southern improvidence neglect and lack of knowledge that every farmer in the land does not raise quantities of the lima beans. They always command a high price, north and south, and are the only beans that can be kept without trouble in this climate through the entire year. What is more palatable or nutritious than dried lima beans properly cooked? There is no better place to raise them than in the fence corners, which are rich with the washings from the field, while the fence affords just the kind of a place the vines delight to trail upon. In this climate the vines grow and bear until killed by frost. They should be gathered (to keep) before the pod is entirely dry, and before the bean has shrunk. Pick out a good place and plant about fifty fence jams, three hills to the jam, and see if they don't pay better than anything you plant. more palatable or nutritious than dried lima thing you plant.

Mr. John P. Clegg and his friend Powell, from Dooly, came into town on Monday last, and eagerly inquired about the political news.

They had an idea that something serious had happened, as they heard the woodpeckers singing "Cleveland!" "Cleveland!" while an occasional jaybird could be seen hopping around in an oak bush saying "Hayes!" "Hayes!" The woodpeckers are returning from their winter quarters in large numbers, and are rejoicing at the prospect of a good corn crep.

Colorel James L. Fleming, a prominent groccy merchant, a member of the firm of Mesers. Fleming & Loffin, Augusta, Ga., makes the following statement of the treatment of a valuable horse with Swift's Specific:

In the fall of 1883 I had a valuable colt taken with a severe case of pinkeye, which resulted in the most fearful case of blood poicon I have ever seen. DUEL ISLAND.

A CURIOUS SPOT OF LAND IN THE TUGALO RIVER.

An Editor Goes on a Fishing Expedition, and Catches Lots of Information on the Way-The Scene of an Old Duci-A Romance of the Flood-Incidents of Worth,

From the Hartwell, Ga., Sun. Friday afternoon of last week Messrs. Jas. R. Meredith, W. H. and W. R. Stephenson, Jim and John Magill resolved to go a-fishing up on the Tugalo at Hatton's ford. Hired a hack, took some quilts, old clothes to seine in, a piece of bacon, meal, and a frying-pan, and put out. Had a pleasant ten mile drive to the ford, and enjoyed the delightful flower-ladened breezes. Nothing worthy of mention was seen on the way except a dead dog hanging to a limb in the woods near Mr. John Cleveland's, which led us to believe that the sheep raisers in that neighborhood have a dog law unto themselves.

The sun was about an hour high when we arrived on the Carolina side of the river, where we struck camp under a high bluff. Meredith said there was a splendid place to catch suckers up the river a mile and bluff. Meredith said there was a splendid place to catch suckers up the river a mile and a half, where a creek emptied in, so we donned our old clothes, and leaving Bob to fix the camp, marched up the bank in Indian file, over one of the roughest routes it was ever our misfortune to traverse. When we arrived at the place, hot and fagged out, Meredith coolly informed us that we were just two miles and a halt from camp. We were too tired to murder him, else to day his wife would be a disconsolate (?) widow. The seining did not pan out quite up to our anticipations, but we got ehough fish for supper, and when we reached camp at dusk found that Bob had prepared a fire ready to cook supper. We were deputised to do the cooking, and when we took an inventory of our cooking utensils found that we had a frying pan, nothing to make up dough in, nothing to cook it in, no coffee pot, no anything but that small short-handled fryingpan. Bob got on his horse and rode a mile to the nearest house and got the necessary utensils save a coffee pot, and so we had to make the coffee in a kettle. While we were engaged in frying fish Bob took the kettle to the river, filled it, and was on the point of putting the coffee in to the kettle of old water. Owing to the uncertainty of cooks our wife had taught us the srt of making coffee, so we told Bob to boil the water before he put in the coffee, and us the srt of making coffee, so we told Bob to boil the water before he put in the coffee, and when it was made and the fish fried we had a supper fit for five of the hungriest fellows that supper fit for five of the hungriest fellows that ever went a fishing.

THROWING THE SEINE OUT.

After supper we seined the ford, and of all the rough work that seining was the worst. The bottom of the river is covered with rocks of all sizes and shapes, but we noticed one thing—the sharp edges were uppermost every time. In a few minutes Meredith had a "ketch" in his knee and had to turn his end of the scine over to Uncle Billy. In a few minutes more Bob began to flounder about on one foot exclaiming. "Ooch! ouch! umph! one foot exclaiming, "Ooch! ouch! umph! lordy! I believe my leg is broke." We laughed at first, but when he showed us where laughed at first, but when he showed us where the crsg had torn the knee of his pants we began to sympathize with him. Though his wound was a simple abrasion of the cuticle, it put a stop to his seining. We took his place, and by the time we had caught enough fish for breakfast we were all willing to quit. We made down our pallets, and Jim and Uncle Billy did the sleeping for the crowd. Dread of snakes kept us from sleeping, and we kept Meredith and Bob awake, so we got even with the snakes.

so we got even with the snakes.

Saturday morning we went up to Mr. Harrison Price's, who owns a large plantation along the river. Mr. Price proved to be a most courteous gentleman, and we cannot thank him too much for his kindness. He threw open wide the doors of his hospitable home to us. He is an intelligent, progressive, thrifty farmer, and has a fine farm in splendid trim. He has just erected a handsome dwelling, and all of the surroundings indicate that he is on the high road to generous prosperity. He furnished us with fishing tackle, dug bait for us, and told us that if there was anything he could do for us to command him.

AN OLD TINE DUEL. o we got even with the snakes.

AN OLD TIME DUEL.

Returning to camp we waded the river over to the island, and as it had no name we took the liberty of dubbing it "Duel Island." It ontains ninety-three acres, about seventy of contains ninety-three acres, about seventy of which are tillable. The island has a history, and we were shown the exact spot where Benjamin F. Perry and Bynum fought a duel over a half century ago. It was in the days of nullification, in '82, when politics were normy and party spirit ran high. Perry was a staunch unionist and Bynum was a hery nullifier. The latter grossly insulted Perry, and in obedience to the barbarous custom that then prevailed Perry had to challenge him or suffer disgrace at the bar of publicopinion. At the disgrace at the bar of public opinion. At the day appointed they met on the island, each with his pistol and coffin. Bynum was an expert shot, and it was confidently believed that Perry would bite the dust at the crack of his pistol. They fought at ten paces, At the word Perry fired first. Bynum then fired and his ball tone a hole through Perry's cost breast word Perry fired first. Bynum then fired and his ball tore a hole through Perry's coat breast exposing the red lining. Colonel Huger, who was present and near Bynum, exclaimed, "He's got it," and Bynum replied, "I have too." Bynum's ball hit exactly where he had told his friends it would, but Perry's coat was a very loose fit and the builet grazed the skin leaving a blue streak across his body. Perry's ball went through Bynum's thigh, cutting the main artery, and the poor fellow bled to death. He was carried to a house on the place now owned by Mr. Price, and the on the place now owned by Mr. Price, and the blood stains, from his wounds, were visible on the ceiling when the house was tern down last the ceiling when the house was tern down last year. His remains were interred at the old stone church, three miles from Pendleton, and tradition says that a green pine pole used to carry the ceilin, was stuck in the ground at the head of the grave, took root and is now a large tree. The tree is there to corroborate the tradition. Mr. Perry is still living at Greenville, the Nestor of Carolina statesmen. He has held many promirent positions, and shortly after the war was governor of the state. Mrs. W. F. Wheeler, of Hartwell, is a niece of his.

A STORY OF THE FLOOD.

At the time of the May freshet in 1840 two At the time of the May freshet in 1840 two men were engaged in farming on this island. They took provisions with them to do for several days, as they lived too far off to go back and forth each day. When the rain began they had no idea of danger and made no effort to leave the island. In a short time the waters had risen to such height that they could not escape. They went to the highest part of the island but soon found that something had to be done or they would be swept away. They found a tree with three trunks united at the bottom and forking out a few feet above the ground and nailed strips of planks to each trunk high enough as they thought would be secure and made a sort of platform with boards, perched upon which, with the surging waters beneath, they remained for five long days and nights before they were rescued. We were shown the tree, which is a post-oak and now dead, only two of the trunks remain standing.

On the lower end of the island is a buzzard roost, and we saw quite a number of these winged scavengers in the tall trees.

A deer, it is said, leaped down from the lofty bluff near our camp a distance of sixty-three feet white pursued by hunters, swam the river and made its escape.

On the Georgia side is an old mill, said to be haunted. It certainly can boast of "departed spirits" as a barroom was run in it before prohibition prevailed.

A VERSATILE BEGGAR.

How He Imposed Upon Preacher Whitfield and William Penn. From the Cincinnati Enquirer.

The most notorious beggar of the first half of the last century was Bamfylde Moore Carew, a man welf known on both sides of the Atlantic. He was the son of respectable parents, his father being a Devonshire clergyman, but when a mere boy he broke away from the restraints of home life and attached himself to a band of traveling mendicants, of whom he eventually became chief. His first visit to America was owing to a sentence of transportation for seven years passed at the quarter sessions at Exeter. He managed to escape from shipboard in Maryland, and after divers thrilling adventures turned up at New Castle, Pa. This was a Quaker town, but the versatile genius of Carew did not forsake him. The most notorious beggar of the first half versatile genius of Carew did not forsake him. A Quaker be at once became. Pulling the button off his hat, flopping it on one side, and putting on a demure look, he entered a Quaputting on a demure look, he entered a Quaker barbershop and told a pittable story; that his name was John Elworth, of Bristol, and that he had been kidnapped and endured great hardships. The barber willingly shaved him and gave him a half crown bill, and recommended him to a Mr. Wiggil. Of him he got ten shillings, and of others similan amounts. At this time Whitfield, the great preacher, was in the country preaching at Derby. Along the road he met hundreds of people going to hear the great pulpit orator. 'Friend,' says Carew to one of them, "where are you going so fast?" "Hast thou not heard?" replied the other. "The second Christ has come."

has come."

Whitfield was preaching in an orchard to a large crowd. So great was the rush he was unable to get near enough to hear; but this did not prevent him from affecting penitence and griet. In the morning Carew, in the name of John Moore, drew up a moving petition to the great Whitfield. He set forth that he was the son of a clergyman, who had been taken on board the Tiger and carried to Havana, from whence he escaped by the sid of the governor of whence he escaped by the aid of the governor of Maryland; that his circumstances were deplor-able, and he needed help. Going to the house where Whitfield lodged he found a hundred where Whitfield lodged he found a hundred people waiting, and, spying a young boy whom he knew belonged to Whitfield, he persuaded him to earry in his petition. Soon the preacher came cut, and the Quakers pressed around him, saying: "Pray thee, friend, come and pray by my dear wife. Pray thee, friend, come and see my dear brother." But Whitfield made his way through them all, and, going up to Carew, said he was sorry for his misfortune—that they happened by the will of God—and ended by giving him $20. Whitfield wished him a safe return to England and went away singing psalms, in which the crowd joined. Carew was now seven miles from Philadelphia. He ran across a friendly Irishman here who showed him the sights and, passing a handsome residence, he asked whose it was, and was told it was Proprietor Penn's, who had just come from Penn's, who had just come from England with his brother-in law, Captain Frome. This was enough for Carew. He excused himself from his host, telling him he had business to transact, and, clapping his right hand into his coat, as if he had lost the use of it, he knocked at William had lost the use of it, he knocked at William Penn's door, which was opened by a negro with a silver collar around his neck. Invited in, the proprietor, dressed in plain clothes, and Captain Frome, in regimentals, soon came along. Being asked what he wanted, he invented at once a plausible tale, and belonged to Captain Davis's ship. Captain Frome, seeing him a lusty, tall fellow, declared he should go along with him, and fight the dogs. Carew, ever ready with a lie, reclared he should go along with him, and fight the dogs. Carew, ever ready with a lie, replied that he had lost the use of his right arm by the dead palsy. William Penn gave him a guines, and so did his brother in-law. Through Burlington, Perth, Amboy, and Elizabethtown Carew proceeded to the then small town of New York, having 1,100 houses and 7,000 inhabitants. He was surprised at the sight of a great number of gibbets with blacks hanging upon them, but upon inquiring he found that the negroes had not long before entered into a conspiracy for burning the city. The plot being discovered, great numbers were executed and hung up to terrify others. ceuted and hung up to terrify others.

After traveling through Long Island, Carew took a ship at New London for England, and accomplished his threat of getting back to Exeter two months before the captain who took him out, though he narrowly escaped being impressed into the navy when within sight of shore. His escape was owing to his pricking his arms and breast with a needle, and rubbing it with bay salt and guapowder, which made it appear like the smallpox coming out. Then he played the luna tic, came on deck with only a blanket on, acted as if affected with nausea and frightened everybody so that they were only too glad to put him ashore. His return to England was hailed by his friends with joy and marry-making, for they had long given him up as dead. He now went about the country in dead. He now went about the country in various disguises, sometimes as an old woman; he bound a beefsteak on his leg to represent a running sore, and begged from door to door with varied luck and a great amount of adventure. He passed through a number of escapes in Russia, Germany, France and Sweden, and was sent again to America, this time illegally being kidnapped by the owner of the vessel which had first carried him, who felt defrauded at the loss of his purchase money. Caren having assented carried him, who felt defrauded at the loss of his purchase money, Carew having escaped before he was sold. He was no sooner landed than he again escaped, captured a horse in a pasture, and swam the Delaware, and by the aid of friends reached Boston. In this city he was struck with the number of booksellers' shops. At New York there was but one, and none at all in Virginia, Maryland or the Carlings.

A Bit of R. & D. Gossip.

A Bit of R. & D. Gossip.

From the Charlotte Observer.

It is said that Mr. George S. Scott, who some months ago gave up his banking business in New York, resigned the presidency of the Richmond and Danville railroad company and sailed for Europe to be absent two years, is coming back to New York. Whether his return is but temporary or means a renewed application to the active business is not known. He is still a director of the Richmond and Danville. To him is due its present organization, and of him it has been said that he carried the system in his vest pocket. He is certainly a remarkable maz, and his investment in this system was the reand his investment in this system was the re-cult, so he said, of his belief in the growing prosperity of the south. The capital stock of the Richmond and Danville road is only $5,-600,000. Its charter will not allow it to own stock in any road not connecting directly with it, so the Richmond West Point Terminal company was organized with a capital of $15,000,000, of which a majority is owned by the Richmond and Danville proper. The Terminal company owns, leases or controls a long series of roads reaching into Georgia, the most important of which are the Virginia Mid-land, the Western North Carolina, the Charlotte, Columbia and Augusta, the Columbia and Greenville, and the Georgia Pacific. It is thus a fact that the $5,000,000 capital stock of the Richmond and Danville railroad controls absolutely over 2,500 miles of road. Of what other system can this be said? Even if the stock sold at par an investment of $2,500,000 stock sold at par an investment of $2,500,000 would make a man master of 2,500 miles of road, traversing an old and populous section of the country. But the stock does not sell any where near par. There has not been a sale of it recorded in the stock exchange for two or three weeks. The highest price this year was fifty-four on March 9. Last year the highest price was sixty-one and the lowest thirty-two. The system, though a southern one, is really controlled by northern capitalists. In the board of directors, besides Mr. Scott, are George I. Seney, W. P. Clyde and John H. Inman. Office of State Chemist, ATHENS, Gs., June 26, 1884. I have been familiar for a number of years with the general character of Prof. Horsford's phosphate preparations. Recent examinations made some of the "Acid Phosphate" and "Bread Preparation," show them to be exactly what is claim, ed for them in the circulars accompanying the packages. The "Acid Phosphate" is a concentra-ted solution in water of Acid Phosphate of Lime,

The "Bread Preparation" is a mix ture of Acid Phosphate lime carbonate of soda and flour. When mixed with water, carbonic acid gas is liberated and a double phosphate of lime and soda is formed and remains in the bread when baked. In ordinary cream of tartar baking powders the substance left in the bread after "raising" is rochelle salts-a double tartrate of soda and potash. The phosphates are usefu mineral substances in animal nutrition and growth, the tartrates are not.

In my opinion the Phosphatic Powder is, therefore, preferable to the others, so far as healthfulness is concerned, H. O. WHITE, yet arrived, and their names were withdrawn. The trial of the criminal cranks is now in progress. Dick Short, who attempted the removal of Captain Phelan, was last night acquitted in New York city. Cluverius, the son of a bireling who married into the Madison family, of Virginia, is trying to get a tavorable jury in Richmond. And lastly, Maxwell, the trunk murderer of St. Louis, has been arrested in New Zealand, and will thus become an international character.

ANTHONY M. KEILY is a man of many comunds. He was once elected mayor of Richmond, when he made a speech denouncing the occupation of Rome by Victor Emmanuel. As president of the Young Men's Catholic association, he posed as the representative Catholic layman. When Bresident Cleveland went into office. Mr. Keily applied for a consulship, and drew out the Italian mission instead. Here the ghost of Victor Emmanuel haunted him, when he made another speech covering praise the son of the man whom he had denounced, bringing down upon his head the assaults of the Catholic press of this country. It did no good, for Humbert objected to his coming, and he was then given the Austrian mission. Now it develops that Austria objects to him because his wife is a Jewess, the intermarriage of Catholics and Jews being a disturbing question in Austrian politics.

THE COMMERCIAL CONVENTION. There appears to be no doubt of the brilliant success of the commercial convention which assembles in this city week after next. The attendance of more than two hundred delegates is already assured, and this number is increased by every mail. Among these are some of the most distinguished people in the country, including Governor Gray, of Indiana, and Governor Scales, of North Carolina. Delegations from San Francisco, Omaha and Leadville will come and will evidence the widespread interest in the convention. The programme will be rich and varied.

A visit to Atlanta at this period of the year will of itself be worth a five days' journey. The city is fresh and beautiful, and spreads before the view as a picture. Never before in our history have we been so well prepared to entertain guests and show our bright and lively city at its best. We guarantee that all who come to the convention will be delighted with Atlanta, with its hospitality and its people. We hope to see every southern town and city represented in the convention. We can easily take care of one thousand delegates, and should not feel crowded if twice as many were to come. Certainly every town and city within a hundred miles of Atlanta should be represented. Those towns that have not yet appointed delegates should do so at

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND'S POLICY. If Senator Eustis is a reader of the newspapers, which we are inclined to doubt, he will perceive that he stands alone in the democratic party as a critic of President Cleveland's administration. The discussion which the genator's petulant attack on the president has aroused, is convincing evidence that not only the great mass of democratic voters, but even those leaders who are generally supposed to be feverishly interested in the distribution of the spoils, have unbounded confidence in the administration, and that they have an abiding faith that it is doing the very best that could be done for the country and the democratic party.

Senator Voorhees, who is about as active a politician as Senator Eustis, and who might be supposed to have reason for complaint. declares in effect that the distribution of spoils is not a matter in which a conscienous democrat can afford to break with an dministration. Senator Voorhees might have one further, indeed, and said that the disibution of patronage is not a proper subject r democratic criticism, especially in view the events attending the election of Mr. leveland and the peculiar circumstances irrounding his administration. the country accusing the administration of moving slowly, it ought to be sufficient answer that the democratic party takes possession of a government which has been for twenty-five years in the hands of the republicans, and that the senate is still republican. If the administration went to work with reckless rapidity in making changes the members of it would prove thereby their unfitness for their places. I refuse to discuss any such proposition as that Mr. Cleveland may prove disloyal to his party or the principles upon which they elected him. My confidence in his integrity sense of duty never crossed the threshold of the white house. The personnel of the cabinet he has chosen is also remarkably high. It is not well selected, in my judgment, from a geographical point of view, perhaps. I do not

As a visit from the Asiatic cholera is expected this summer, the deadly epidemic now raging a Plymouth, Pa., may well be regarded as a warning. The pestilence at Plymouth has been carrying of as many as seven victims a day, a fearful rate of mortality for a village. In preparing for the approach of cholera we make a mistake in confining sanitary precautions to large cities. Small villages are liable to become cholera breeders as well as the large cen ters of population. In many villages the wells receive the foul and poisonous drainage of cesspools, stables, and pig pens. Every well should be located where it will receive no pad drainage and should be cleaned at least once a year. Every cellar should be cleansed and whitewashed at least once a season, and aired freely every day. No ponds of stagnent waste water should be allowed o stand. The people of Plymouth relied so strongly upon the well-known healthfulness of their town that they grew careless. As soon as typhoid fever obtained a foothold it was too late to prevent its spread. It ran through the town like wildfire and spread to the neighboring villa-What has happened to Plymouth may befall any other community in the land where the same conditions prevail. In the meridia splendor of her charms, and in the plenitude of her power Eugenie shone the bright particular star in the galaxy of the world's imperial sovereignties. A BILL is pending in the New York legislature t abolish imprisonment for debt. It has never struck the average New York mind until quite recently hat there was at ything wrong in hustling a man to prison simply because he was so unfortunate a o be unable to pay his creditors, but of late there has been a decided change in sentiment. Severe reputable New York papers boldly take the position that debt is not a crime and the deborshould not be confined like a felon Georgia abolished imprisonment for debt so many years ago that the present genera-tion cannot recollect much about the hardships of the old law. It is gratifying to see New York wheeling into line with Georgia and other states, although she is twenty years behind any of her sisters in this reform. How the barbarism of im prisonment for debt has managed to retain a foot-

From the Times. The great trouble with preachers in this good day is that they are so elegant that they always refer to hell as the "burnt district," This sort of dignity is the starch of a shroud. One preacher said to me once: "Jones, if I preached as plain as you, I'd lose my religion." I replied: "If I preached like you I'd lose my congregation."
There is not a man in Chattanooga who doesn't hear family as reserved. There is not a man in chartanogs who doesn't have family prayers that has got as much religion as a goat. I never saw a man yet who disbelieved in a hell who, if there is one, is not making a bee line for it. A man never had a seed at the bottom, and the name of that seed is sin. Your infidelity is as deep as your meanness and no deeper.

NOTES FROM THE DIAMOND.

Items From the Baseball Centers of the Southern League.

The league games will be renewed to day.

During the week Macon has yielded first place in the league to Atlanta, and Columbus has crowded Nashville out of third place. Memphis and Chat-tanooga have advanced from the lowest places, and bid fair to strike for the middle ranks.

It is said that Macon claims the two games won by Chattanooga, on the ground of alleged treachery of the umpires of both games. It is claimed that they have evidence to prove that in both games the umpires were paid to give the game to Chattanooga. The first game was um-pired by Mr. John C. Vance, the president of the Chattanooga association, and a leading hardware merchant of that city. It seems very improbable that such a charge has any foundation in fact.

To-day's Game in Atlanta, To-day's game at Athletic park will be a close and exciting one. The Augustas will put up Kiloy, the left-handed little wizard who seems able to defy our strongest batters. The Atlantas will put up Dundon, whose superb pitching against the Nashvilles so nearly shut out that redoubtable

Both clubs have rested a day and will take the diamond this afternoon in perfect form. The game stands one and one between the teams, and each will struggle gamely for the deciding game. Play will be called at four o'clock prompt. Be on and in the grand stand in time to see the first ball struck, as the game will be a great one. The Macen Excursions Next Saturday,

Advices from Macon indicate that monster excursions will leave that city on Saturday morning for Atlanta. It is said that the Central will run wo special trains-one as a through train and the other for intermediate points. Griffin promises to make up a party of about 200 and come up. The East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad will also put on a $1 rate and bring its quota of people. The excursions will

We promise our visitors a superb game. The Macon team is a strong one, and we are satisfied with Atlanta. A perfectly competent and impar-tial umpire will be chosen, and the game will afford rare sport. Atlanta will take care of all Macon if it will only come up to see us.

The Game in Chattanooga. Chattanooga, Tenn, May 6.—[Special.]—The Chattanoogas and Macons play their last game here to morrow. Hart and Green will be the bat tery for the home team, and Johnson and Morris sey for the visitors. Chattancogaians are disgusted over the tissue of falsehoods telegraphed to Macon regarding the games. The visitors were out-played at every point, and their defeat yesterday was attributable o their failure to hit Ryan.

Charges Against Chattanooga Umpires, MACON, Ga., May 6 .- [Special.]-A telegram was received here to night from Levis, of the Maconson of win Chattanooga, to the effect that the umpires of the recent games in that city had virtually admitted receiving pay to decide the games against the Macons. Messrs. Monroe Jones and Joe Hart, of the directors, left for Chattanooga to-night to investigate the matter. If the charges against the umpires are proved steps will be taken to have the Chattanoogas ruled out of the Southern league.

Colonel H. P. Farrow Says He Will Resign When Cleveland Asks it, Colonel H. P. Farrow was in town yester-

"Are you still collector of the port of Bruns-

"Are you still collector of the port of Brunswick?"

"Yes; but I simply await the pleasure of the administration."

"Would you resign if so requested?"

"Certainly I would. If I recollect aright, my party was defeated last November, and that defeat lost us the offices. Of course it will take time to make a complete change in all the offices, as the president and the heads of departments have much to do besides investigating the respective claims of those composing the army of office seekers; but it is to be presumed that this will be done as speedily as possible, and when, in the course of business, the administration reaches any given office and makes selection from its own party and signifies through proper departmental chaunels, its readiness to make a change, the incumbent should step aside promptly and respectfully. Such action by the administration is no reflection, but is reasonable and right. The democracy have been out of office twenty-five years, and now that they have whipt us at the polls they are entitled to every office from the presidency down. It will take them over one year to make all the changes, but four years hence I think, with our experience, we will be able, on taking charge again, to clean them up within one year." rience, we will be able, on taking charge again, to clean them up within one year."
"You think your party will succeed in next

"Yes, I have no doubt of it. But let that 188, I have no doubt of it. But let that be as it may, the democracy were successful last November, and I believe they should be appointed to all the offices as speedily as can be done without detriment to the government. And when we defeat them four years hence we should remember, likewise, that it takes time to make all these changes and should pro-ceed cautiously, as they are now doing."

"Then you are not in favor of your party attempting through its majority in the senate to keep republicans in office?"

"No; and I would regard such an attempt by my party as a fatal blunder. The great beauty of American institutions is the cheer-fulness and promptness with which minorities yield to majorities, and this sentiment in sup port of the 'will of the people' is so strong that en attempt by the republican party through its majority in the senate to rob the democracy an attempt by the republican party through its majority in the senate to rob the democracy of the fruits of its victory would be rebuked by the people in the next election. This is a democratic administration, and the responsibility should be solely upon them, and should the republican senate 'side-line' them so as to divide the responsibility with them, republicanism would suffer for it in the next campaige. My judgment is that we should give them undisputed and unobstructed possession of all the fruits of their victory, and then defeat them four years hence, if we can; and when we do, let them yield with the same grace."

"Are your views in accord with your party on this question?"

"I know not. I speak for myself, alone. I hold a commission which does not expire till next March, and therefore it devolves upon me to act for myself, but I leave others to shape their own course. From my experience and observation in politics I am firmly of the opinion that no person of one political party should seek to hold office under the opposite party, and I am furthermore of the opinion the taw, one so indiscrete sate try it. perty should seek to hold omee under the op-posite party, and I am furthermore of the opinion that any one so indiscreet as to try it will live to regret it. I think all republican incumbents should continue the faithful and efficient discharge of their official duties until the administration is ready to relieve them, and should then resign, and such will be my course."

"Has any request been made for your resignation?" asked the reporter.
"None, but when it is made, I shall cheer-

TROUSDALS .- WITT.

Miss Fannie May Witt, of the Sunny South and Mr. C. H Trousdale Married Miss Fannie May Witt, of the Sunny South, was married last night to Mr. C. H. Trousdale, of the Bulletin, of Monroe, La.

The marriage smacks of a romance. About a year ago Miss Witt visited Monroe, La., in the The marriage smacks of a romance. About a year ago Miss Witt visited Monroe, La., in the interest of the Sunny South. She met Mr. Trousdale and it was a genuine case of love at first sight. When Miss Witt left Monroe, she carried away with her a heart which has been hers ever since, but left behind one she never wants to leclaim.

Letters passed between Miss Witt and Mr. Trousdale regularly. These letters all breathed the same sentiment and as the days went by the writers grew dearer and dearer to each other. Several months ago Mr. Trousdale visited Miss Witt at her home and an engagement was the result. The bride-elect, however, preferred to keep the engagement a secret, and successfully managed it until yesterday morning.

Miss Nettie Maud Latham, of Gadsden, Alabama, a bright, vivacious young lady, is a consin of the bride. Several weeks ago Miss Latham was made a party to the secret, and was asked by her cousin to be present when the marriage took place. Miss Latham is just such a lady as one would select to arrange or inspire a romance. On last Friday Miss Latham, in obedience to a telegram from her cousin, left Gadsden for Atlanta. The bride was then in Marietta, and had determined that her family should know nothing of the wedding until the license had been procured, the minister engaged and every detail arranged Miss Latham was well rebearsed in her part, and when she reached Atlanta she stopped at Mrs. Witt's home On Monday at elegram was sent Mr. Trousdale, telling him that Miss Witt was ill and desired a postponement of the wedding, but the gentleman had made up his mind and answered that he would leave that night for Atlanta. He thought that Miss Witt was then in the city. On Tuesday Miss Latham started out to find Mr. Trousdale. She called at the Kimball for him, but he was then engaged in a hunt for Miss Witt. She reached the city yesterday morning at 8 o'clock, and after the two lates and Mr. Trousdale had met they went to M. Witt's home. The family was astounded when informed that a wedding was booked for that evening, but they had no objections to interpose, and for once the course of true love ran smoothly.

Only a few intimate friends were made acquainted with the approaching happy event, and at 6:30 o'clock Miss Fannie May Witt became Mrs. C. H. Trousdale. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Kendall, and immediately after the couple, with a few friends, were driven to the Kimball, where they took supper. The evening was passed plessantly by the party, and at eleven o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Trousdale and Misses Latham and Wyly, of Birmingham, boarded the Georgia Pacific. Mr. and Mrs. Trousdale will go to New Orleans, and will be accompanied by the lady who was so largely instrumental in bringing about the match.

The Fire Last Night. An alarm of fire was turned in last night about 12 o'clock from box 52, corner Mitchell and Mangum. It was caused by the burning of a house on gum. It was caused by the burning of a nouse on the corner of Mangum and Magnolia streets. The building was a residence and store house combined. It was owned by Mr. M. The house was worth about $1,200 to $1,500.

A Suit for Damages.

Colonel John A. Wimpy, of this city, attorney for Henry W. Jones, of Toccoa, Ga., filed on yesterday a suit against John E. Bryant and John D. Cunningham, to recover ten thousand dollar damages. Mr. Jones alleges in his petition that J. E. Bryant, United States marshal, and John D. Cunningham, attorney for Dyer, Taylor & Co., on the 27th of March, 1885, did illegally levy and seize a large stock of goods and merchandise of the value of $5,000, and close up the store of Mr. Jones, to satisfy a fi. fa. in favor of Dyer. Taylor & Co., against Jones, for the sum of $50, besides interest and cost; that the defendants denied said Jones the right to point out a large amount of real estate, which was unincumbered, and the title clear in Jones, and was at the time in the actual possession, and which was worth $10,000-said Jones before the levy and seizure of said goods and merchandise required and demanded that said real estate be first levied on and sold to satisfy said if. fa. Railroad Picnic in Screven.

SYLVANIA, Ga., May 6.—[Special.]—A grand ex-cursion was given by the Sylvania railroad company on Saturday from Sylvania and way stations to Rocky Ford. The whole affair, manage t by the superintendent, Mr. E. J. Thomas, was a complete success. Return tickets were sold for 25 cents. The train made three round trips during the day, and carried out over 200 passengers. The excursionists gayly chatted and promenaded around until about 1 o'clock, when a most tempting dinner was spread upon the tables near by, and which soon disappeared before the rapid incoads of the hungry picnickers. The hall above Mr. Heard's store had been engaged for dancing, and to this, after dinner was over, numerous young couples repaired, and to the music of the banjo and fiddle "tripped the light fantastic toe" until late in the afternoon. As the shades of eve began to descend, the party started on its return

Stocks as Reported in the New York Stock

Exchange NEW YORK, May 6.-There has been a decided reaction in the stock market to-day. At the opening of the board the bears were treated to a genu ine surprise by the strength displayed throughou the list but especially in New York Central and Union Pacific, and this was followed by an advance in loaning rates for the former, which did not cul minate until as much as 3% of 1 per cent was paid or the use of the stock for the day. The rally was also accompanied by a decided improvement in the amount of business done, and the advance was not checked until after one o'clock. Late in the day an effort was made to depress prices down. but the decline was checked before three o'clock, and the market closed strong at quotations which show advances in almost everything on the list. The gains were 1/4 to 1 per cent, and the New York Central, the most active and the strongest stock on the list, and closed 3/4 per cent higher. Union Pacific also closed % per cent higher. The other active stocks show smaller gains. The closing prices were slightly below the highest of the day.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Features of the Speculative Movements is Grain and Produce.

By telegraph to The Constitution. CHICAGO, May 6-The day on 'change developed into one of active trading in cereals, the markets generally taking on a buoyant tone despite the removal of the war feature, but reacted in the latest trading, wheat closing for the day a shade under yesterday. Crop news was reported as coming in bad, and as the market seemed stub-born shorts began to cover, which also stimulated buying and caused an advance. Towards the close of the regular board, and during the afternoon session the feeling was weaker, and the market finally closed a shade under yesterday.

Corn was influenced by the firmness in wheat and advanced %@lc over the closing of yesterday, but reacted somewhat, but closed generally strong er than yesterday.

Oats ruled firm, but were weaker towards the close and finished about the same as yesterday. Provisions ruled higher early but reacted and losed lower than yesterday.

Mr. Bonner lives in Macon and no one is better known than he. Strangers can rely upon the statement he makes:

In August, 1881, it was discovered that my son's wife was in the last stages of consumption. She was coughing incessantly, and times would discharge quantities of pus from her lungs, could not sleep or retain anything on her stomach, and we thought it only a question of time when life would be compelled to give way to the fell destroyer, After all other remedies failed, we got.

Brewer's Lung Restorer

And began it in very small doses, as she was yery weak. She soon began to improve; continued the remedy and was restored to life and health, and is to-day better than she has ever been before. I regard her restoration as nearly a miracle, for which she is indebted to BREWER'S LUNG RESTORER.

THE LIQUOR LICENSE.

the Board of Aldermen and the Mayor Have a Whack at It,

The retail liquor dealers of Atlanta will pay a five hundred dollar license tax after July 1, a nve nundred dollar license tax after July 1, next.

That question was fully settled by Mayor Hillyer and the board of aldermen yesterday afterneon. The license has been three hundred dollars per year heretofore, but when the general council adopted the tax ordinance for 1885 on last Monday, the retail liquor license was increased to $500.

The increase met with the hearty approval of the temperance people, but the liquor dealers did not like the increase and at once began a canvas of the aldermanic board to ascertain whether or not the increase could be defeated. The question created considerable interest and the estimate of the beard was waited. the action of the board was awaited with impatience.

The board convened in the committee room at the city hell at 3:30 o'clock. Mayor Hillyer presided and Messrs Mecaslin, Stockdell, Copper, Gramling and Hutchison were present. When the tax ordinance was reached Mr.

oldsmith, the city clerk, said:
"I have brought the tax ordinance along ith me but I don't know whether the board of aldermen will touch it or not."
"What has been the custom heretofore?"
asked Mayor Hillyer. "What do your minutes show?"

"The minutes show that the board of aldermen, has considered it separately," was the nswer. "I don't think we have a thing to do with t," said Mr. Hutchison.

"So I thought once," said Mr. Stockdell,
'but Mr. Goodwir, who was then mayor, over-"I can't see that the board has anything to

"I can't see that the board has anything to do with this question," said Mr. Gramling.
"The charter says the board shall act in separate session on such matters as pertain to the expenditure of the public revenue only. Then sgain we all voted on the question Monday, when it came up in council."

"It has been the custom," said Mr. Cooper, "ever since Atlanta had a charter, for the two bodies to act separately on the tax ordinance, and I can't see why we should depart from it now. It is a question of finance, and properly and I can't see why we should depart from it now. It is a question of finance, and properly belongs to this body."

"I took the other position on this question last year," said Mr. Stockdell, "but the mayor, Mr. Goodwin, overruled me." I appealed from him to the house, and the house sustained the mayor. New you say that the tax ordinance does not contemplate the expenditure of repress. They's true but the text is the second iture of money. That's true, but the tax is a part of the income. The board acts separately on the estimated income for each year, and in that income is the license taxes."

Mayor Hillyer, as he opened the city charter. Then turning to page 28 he read:
Section 13. In all votes resolutions, or ordinances, having for their object the increase of the indebtedness of the city, or the expenditurer of its revenue, except appropriations for the payment of its salaried officers, the councilmen representing the different wards, and aldermen representing the city at large, shall act as separate and distinct legislative bodies; and no vote resolution, or ordinance having for its object the increase of the indebtedness of the city, or the expenditures of its moneys, shall be voted until the same shall have received a majority of the votes of each of those legislative bodies; separately cast. * In all other matters they shall act as a joint board. "Well, since the organization of this general council under the present city charter, the board has acted on the tax ordinance separately, and I can't see why we don't adhere to that precedent," said Mr. Cooper. "We have voied on this quastion once," said

"We have voied on this quastion once." said Mr. Gramling, "and as for myself, I shan't

"This separate action won't hurt anything, or any body,"said Mr. Stockdell, "so let's have Mayor Hillyer was then asked for his opinion. He gave it, and it was adverse to the views entertained by Messrs. Stockdell and Cooper. He said:

That it had never been intended, and would be contrary to the genius of our institutions for two members of the adermanic board, as originally constituted, or three as now constituted, to stop the revenues of the city, and the wheels of its government, by obstructing the levying and colthe revenues of the city, and the wheels of its government, by obstructing the levying and collecting of taxes.

In all modern republies the power of taxation resided with the people, and it would be a dangerous principle to bermit a small body like the alcermen to control the great popular right. The same principle applies both to taxes and to licenses. For instance, suppose that three aldermen could be gotten to say they would not now consent to a tax of more than a half of one per cent. This would shut up the public schools, and abolish the police, and fire department, and stop work on the streets, and leave barely enough to pay interest on the public debt. If the aldermen can strike out one clause taxing any business in the form of a license, they could strike out or lower any form of taxation on property.

No such power was ever intended to be given to the statute.

It was always intended, however, that when taxes were once levied and collected the high degree of wisdom, experience and integrity reasonably expected in the saldermannic hoged would be taxes were once levied and collected the high de-gree of wisdom, experience and integrity reasona-bly expected in the aldermanic board would be called into action, to prevent the money thus drawn from the people from being wasted, and to drawn from the people from being wasted, and to have it wisely expended.

And therefore the charter of the city says that the consent of the aldermanic board, or a majority of them, shall be necessary in order to make any "increase in the indebtedness of the city," and also that the consent of a majority of the allermanic board shall be necessary in order to make any acxpenditure of its revenue."

The restriction in the charter goes thus far and no farther.

And therefore it is clear that the consent of the aldermanic board to the levying and collecting of taxes is not necessary, but that the general coancil may enact a tax ordinance, when acting collectively, and that whatever tax ordinance they

and that whatever tax ordinance the lectively, and that whatever tax ordinance they canet will stand as the law of the city, whether afterwards ratified separately by the aldermanic board or not; and that the aldermanic board have no sutherity or jurisdiction to vote upon such a question when acting as a separate legislative

This settled the question and fixes the retail liquor license at $500 per annum. The mayor's decision was freely discussed on the streets after the board adjourned. It was currently rumored last night that a member of the board will appeal from his ruling at the next regular meeting of the general council.

MR. H. I. KIMBALL MAKES AN EN-COURAGING REPORT.

He Tells of Some of the Special Delegations That will Come—The West to Be well Represented.

Mr. H. I Kimball and asked him how the commercial convention was coming on. Said "There is no doubt now as to the success of the undertaking. One great point that our executive committee has had in mind since the arrangement for the convention was first placed in its hands has been that the personnel of this convention should be of the highest possible standard and equal to any body of men that ever assembled in this country for any purpose, and I am pleased to say that there is now every indica-tion that our ambition in this direction will be "What is your idea of the number of dele-

"What is your idea of the number of delegates that are likely to be present?"
"That is a very difficult question to answer, for the reason that we started so late the information did not get fully before the different commercial bodies of the country in time for the appointment of delegates at their April meetings, consequently a large number of del-egates will not be appointed until the May neetings. A NOTABLE EXAMPLE

A NOTABLE EXAMPLE is our own chamber of commerce, who failed to bring the matter up at their April meeting, and consequently cannot appoint delegates until their monthly meeting next Tuesday. I have assurances from Mr. Snow, president of the board of trade and transportation, New York; Mr. Herrick, president of the produce exchange, Mr. Saunders, of the coffee exchange, and Mr. Wilson, of the chamber of commerce, that the Wilson, of the chamber of commerce, that the

Mr. Howard, secretary of the Boston board of trade, writes that their association will send trade, writes that their association will send delegates. The same is true of Mr. Henry F. Oates, president Boston commercial exchange. There is now no doubt that these and many other bodies will be represented. From the west we have a very large list of delegates ap-

THE SAN FRANCISCO BOARD OF TRADE and chamber of commerce, the board of trade of Denver, and the Silver alliance of Colorado, the board of trade of Milwaukee send dele-gates. Grand Rapids sends a full delegation. There are a dozen towns in Michigan who have already named their delegates, and this have already named their delegates, and this mail which I am opening brings me letters from Mr. Murray, secretary of the Cincinnati chamber of commerce, that ten delegates have been appointed, and that Cincinnati will be fully represented. The beard of trade of Cincinnati will send delegates; a letter from Governor Scales, of North Carolina, appointing Major R. S. Tucker, of Raleigh, and Colonel John L. Brown, of Charlotte, delegates at large from North Carolina. It is quite probable also that Governor Scales will be present. I have a letter from Governor Gray, of Indiana, that he would appoint two delegates and possibly come himself. I have information from tovernor McDaniel, who has appointed Gengovernor McDaniel, who has appointed General John B. Gordon and A. T. McIntire, of Thomas county, delegates for the state of Georgia. General A. R. Lawton and Pearl White, esident of the Mexican, Central American and SOUTH AMERICAN COMMERCIAL EXCHANGE will discuss the question of "Commercial and Reciprocity Treaties between the United States and Foreign Countries." Ex-Governor E. O. Stannard, of St. Louis, and Hon. J. C. C. Black, of Augusta, will discuss "A National Bankrupt Law," as will also Dr. H. V. M. Miller, ex-Uait-Chio, who has twice been appointed to represent this country in foreign congresses upon the subject of bi metalison, and ex United States Senator Willard Warner, of Alabama, will dis-cues the question of compulsory coinage of silver. Hon. John O'Donnell railroad comsilver. Hon. John O'Donnell railroad commissioner, of New York, and Hon. Campbell
Wallace, railroad commissioner of Georgia, will discuss railway transportation.
There are a number of invited guests of the committee who will be present, notably among them will be General Robert Toombs. Mr. S. F. Covington, of Cincinnati, who has been earnest and foremost in his efforts to encourage the execu-tive committee and assist in the organization of this enterprise will be here."

HOW HE IS OCCUHIED. "What work are you now doing to further the enterprise?" "Chiefly I am occupied in attending to correspondence. Mr. Tewksbury, who will make stenographic reports of the convention, is as-sisting me, with two others, in correspondence. Besides an enormous quantity of circulars of information we send out from seventy-five to one hundred autograph letters every day to answer inquiries of all kinds from various mmercial bodies.

'You will see from what I have already stated it is impossible for us to make an est mate of the number of delegates that will be present. Certainly there will be several hun-dred, and if the interest now manifested increases between now and the 19th instant, it is cesible that it may reach a thousand You see from the character of the men I have named who will be present that there is no question as to the ability and high standing of the convention."

Full reports were made by Mr. Kimball, chairman, to the executive committee yester-day afternoon. The committee were much encouraged, and will meet again to-day to agree upon committees of citizens who will be called upon to take hold and assist in carrying this work through to complete success.

THOSE WHO HAVE NOT CONTRIBUTED. The executive committee, in looking over the list of subscribers, finds that a large number of our best citizens, who are usually fore-most in the entertainment of strangers have not subscribed, and probably have not had the opportunity to do so. The committee requests that all persons, especially prolessional men who have not yet subscribed, will do so at once, handing the amount of their subscription to either member of the executive committee, as it is probable that the committee cannot go outside of the list of subscribers in issuing invitations to the banquet, excursions and other entertainments that will be provided during the sitting of the convention.

Greatly reduced rates from all local points to the convention are expected.

He was in-dicted, and his trial came up yester-day. Judge Pitchford has since delivered the books to his successor. His trial yesterday created much interest. Still Another New Enterprise Most Attrac-

Mr. Werner, of the live, enterprising and old established firm of Kenny & Werner, has just returned from a western tour brim full of new and progressive ideas, and the firm have concluded to adopt one of the newest, best and most attractive cosmopolitan features in connection with their business, and have already engaged the necessary skill and ability to enable them to present their new programme to the Atlanta public in a very few days. They propose to convert their immense billiard hall into a firstelass concert saloon, and have engaged a full orchestra, combining some of the best musical and vocal talent in the south. An entire change of programme will be introduced each evening, thereby avoiding the dull monotonous sameness that is too often experienced in connection with entertainments that are intended to be similarly attractive. Their deermination is to give entertainments strictly first class and to exclude every demoralizing or objectionable feature. No low or bad conduct will under any circumstance be tolerated. Every body will not only be expected but required to display the same good behavior that is manifested in first class opera houses. Every thing will be conducted in first class order. A special officer with full police authority has been engaged for the establishment so that even drunkenness will not be tolerated. This is a feature of entertainment that has been long wanted in our city to attract and keep a very large number of young men from dens of vice, and as Ber. Sam Jones would say, "slums of iniquity." Kenny & Werner are determined to keep pace with the times, and in introducing their new schedule are determined to win the patronage and appreciation of the public. first class and to exclude every demoralizing of
